Ten years ago, with the help and encouragement of many people, he became independent in Shirataki. I worked on the farm, worked with live-in volunteers, and provided hospitality to customers. And I feel that this is gradually leading to regional revitalization.

I am truly happy and encouraged that my daily efforts have been recognized. I'm really thankful to you!

desire to make people feel is our starting point, and we engage in a wide range of activities that go beyond just production activities.

Based on field farming management, we are developing a business that will lead to regional revitalization, and in addition to shipping "Shirataki Potato" taste comparison sets nationwide, we will also provide processed frozen potatoes at local roadside station cafeterias. We are working hard to promote our specialty products.

In addition, approximately 600 guests and live-in volunteers, approximately the same as the local population, visit each year to interact with local residents. Through this exchange, some of the live-in volunteers developed a love for agriculture and rural areas, and some aspired to become farmers or moved to Engaru Town.

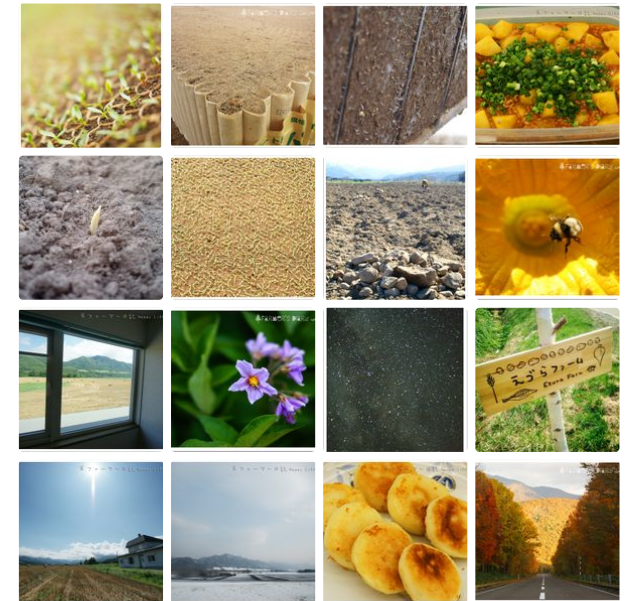

In this way, the activities of Ezura Farm promote the exchange of people, goods, and information, creating a "community population" in the region, and making it an excellent activity that serves as a model for urban-agricultural exchange. In areas that are generally thought to have no tourist resources, they have an amazing ability to rediscover the charm of the area and attract many people.

Ezura Farm's activities are not as flashy as those seen in holding events, but in the 10 years since they started farming, they have continued to communicate the wonders of agriculture and the richness of rural areas in a variety of ways. I believe this will lead to a change in the mindset of existing farmers and the involvement of young people.

I hope that this wonderful activity will continue and be qualitatively enhanced in order to further revitalize local agriculture and rural areas.
